

This young boy was falling at the age of six years of age, had difficulty holding a pen, and doing any of his class work, and it turns out that his father at the age of 30 had problems with his balance and coordination, and his two brothers at 9 and 11 had problems with balance and coordination, and then became wheelchair bound. As we dug deeper into the history of this family, we found that actually hundreds individuals were affected with this disease.